New: After a new review, the Biden administration decided to continue the Trump-era Title 42 border policy, which allows the U.S. to swiftly expel migrants, a CDC spokesperson tells CBS News.

“CDC conducted the 60-day assessment at the end of November and the Order stands.”

We reported last month on an internal plan to wind down Title 42 over the summer. The plan—which entailed vaccinating migrants—was scrapped after top White House and DHS officials expressed concern about unwinding Title 42 when border arrests had spiked.

We just published new statistics that show only a small percentage of migrants processed this year have had access to Covid-19 vaccines (unaccompanied children and some immigrants held by ICE). One key reason is that Border Patrol has not offered vaccines.

Isn't this a little disingenuous? The #SupremeCourt is forcing this administration to continue the policy. It's not like @JoeBiden woke up and just decided to do this today.
