SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Proposed Changes to the Form Instructions for Form I–290B

On December 6, 2019, USCIS published a notice in the Federal Register requesting public comments for 60-days on its proposed update to the Form I–290B, Notice of Appeal or Motion, and its form instructions. 84 FR 66924 (Dec. 6, 2019) (60-day notice). In the 60-day notice, USCIS explained that it was proposing to clarify the AAO’s procedural requirements as provided in the Form I–290B in a number of ways. USCIS received six comments and we have responded to the comments in the addendum attached to the supporting statement that has been submitted to OMB with the request for approval of this information collection. A summary of the changes that were proposed and the outcome of each proposal in the final form and instructions submitted to OMB for review and clearance in accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act are as follows:

(1) Appeals Must Address All Grounds of Ineligibility Identified in the Unfavorable Decision

For the reasons provided in the 60-day notice and in the responses to the public comments, this change is maintained in the update to the Form I–290B Instructions.

(2) Affected Parties May Waive the “Initial Field Review” Process

After considering public comments, USCIS has removed this change from the form and instructions.

(3) Clarify the “Initial Field Review” Process When Evidence Is Not Submitted Concurrently With the Appeal

This change is maintained in the update to the Form I–290B Instructions.

(4) Treatment of Newly Submitted Evidence on Appeal

After considering public comments, USCIS has removed this proposed change.

(5) Abuse of Discretion Standard of Review for Discretionary Decisions

USCIS has removed this proposed change from the revised form instructions submitted to OMB for review.

(6) Clarify That the AAO Does Not Have Appellate Jurisdiction Over “No Risk” Determinations Under the Adam Walsh Act

The proposed Form I–290B Instructions clarify that the AAO does not have jurisdiction over appeals of “no risk” determinations under the Adam Walsh Child Protection and Safety Act of 2006, Public Law 109–248, 120 Stat. 587 (AWA). Section 402(a)(2) of the AWA bars approval of family-based visa petitions filed by U.S. citizens who have been convicted of a “specified offense against a minor” unless the DHS Secretary, in his or her “sole and unreviewable discretion,” determines that the U.S. citizen poses “no risk” to the beneficiary of the petition. For the reasons provided in the 60-day notice and in the responses to the public comments, this change is maintained in the update to the Form I–290B Instructions.

(7) Define the Term “New Facts” for Motions To Reopen

After considering public comments, USCIS has removed this change from the form instructions.

(8) Certain Beneficiaries of Employment-Based Immigrant Petitions Are Considered Affected Parties for Revocation Proceedings

This change is maintained in the update to the Form I–290B Instructions.

(9) Define the Term “Record of Proceeding”

This change is maintained in the update to the Form I–290B Instructions.

(10) Administrative Appellate Review of a Dismissed Motion Is Limited to Whether the Motion Was Properly Dismissed

This change is maintained in the update to the Form I–290B Instructions.

(11) Safe Address

In response to public comments and stakeholder input, USCIS added a space to collect the safe address from affected parties who are subject to 8 U.S.C. 1367. This change is maintained in the update to the Form I–290B and instructions.

(12) Space on the Form To State the Basis of the Appeal or Motion

This change is maintained in the update to the Form I–290B and instructions.
